New York, April 8.—[Special.]—Some of the doctor's nearly professional acquaintances agreed to arrive this morning, and it could be safely taken consideration that he had made his appointed hour. His temperature was but little above the normal, his pulse was less quick than it has been for a week, his respiration was also less unsatisfactorily strong than usual. His head unquestionably showed a slight and improved the natural appearance. Commissioner Dudley of the Central Land Office is considering a proposition to redeem or locate 1,000,000 acres of the Indian reserves. It is said that by the redemption of these lands the Government will be relieved of the payments annually to Indians and Canada. This is regarded as a favorable opportunity for the Government to get rid of these lands, as they are considered by Indians as their property, and have never been sold by a Government or Indian. It is reported that the Commissioner will revoke the order by which the Indians who lately were established.

The Republican Amendment to the Governor Consent by Substantial—A Solitary Vote.

A Lady Stenographer Transmitted for the Senate and Done by the Senate.

Bank Bill by the Railway Commissioners and Bank's Charter Changes—Insurance Intrigue.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 8.—[Special.]—Governor Fifer gave to Senator William E. Mason the pen with which he signed the bill providing for the free distribution of the two Senate and House bills. He wanted to make the distribution unanimous, when one solitary negro stood up and refused to accept the pen. There were tough times then, and Governor Fifer, Democrat, and Governor Oglesby, Republican, were compelled to work hard to get a quorum. Oglesby had to send a special train to Chicago to get Senator Logan, and Fifer had to send a special train to Peoria to get Senator Cullom. The Republicans were determined to defeat the bill, and the Democrats were equally determined to pass it. Fifer and Oglesby were both present, and the Republicans had to submit. Senator Mason was the last man to vote, and he did so with a smile. He wanted to make the distribution unanimous, when one solitary negro stood up and refused to accept the pen. The President Determined that the Winnebago Bonds Business Must Not Suffer.

He Votes to Eject Lawmaker on the Public Domain—Has Power Likely to Be Revived.

Public Declaration of Gen. Lawton for the Senator Mantor-Rational Capital Row.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 8.—[Special.]—The President is now deeply embarrassed with the Winnebago matter, although he says that is an extraordinary case, it is said he is determined the settlers shall not suffer. He is reported that he feels very deeply opposed with that the many allegations of the Administrative organs that they should be removed. While appreciating the force of this argument, he is said to be impressed with the fact that settlers who went in good faith and in accordance with an Executive order advertised to preempting land, this land supposed itself to receive. The President has promised to give the matter his early attention and to endeavor to devise some by which it can be fairly adjusted. The cases of settling the question have not yet been determined upon, but it is the impression of the officers in charge of the land offices that the Department's efforts will be successful in securing action of some kind during the present session of Congress sufficient for the relief of the settlers.

The financial announcement of Tuesday, by Mr. Secretary Manning, that the Secretary of the Treasury would not purchase bonds, but would allow the surplus to accumulate in the Treasury, has created a profound sensation in financial circles. Many bankers and dealers in securities, who had been heavy purchasers of bonds on speculation, and others who had been carrying them in the expectation of selling them to the Government, are badly embarrassed, and it is asserted that there are at least 5,000,000 bonds being carried. Many of these investments are in bonds which will not be purchased by the Government, and it is believed that there will be many proper bonds offered. The Secretary's announcement is considered a practical refusal of that class now to sell to the Government, and the President's signing the act to prevent the sales during the present month.

Mr. Sawtelle, Chairman of the Postal Committee, has under consideration a proposition to change the present system of appointments to the railway mail service. It is proposed to have the appointments made by the Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, instead of by the Postmaster-General, as at present. The Superintendent would be required to make the appointments from lists of persons who have passed a satisfactory examination before a board of examiners. The Postmaster-General would be required to appoint from the lists furnished by the Superintendent. The proposition is said to be favored by the Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, and by many of the officials of the Department. It is also favored by many members of Congress, who are in favor of civil-service reform, but who do not like the idea of having the appointments made by the Postmaster-General, who is a member of the Cabinet, and who is supposed to be subject to political influences. It is said that the proposition will be favorably considered by the Committee, and that it will be reported to the House at an early day.

Senator Logan, of Illinois, has introduced a bill providing for the appointment of a commission to consist of three officers of the army, to be appointed by the President, to examine and report upon the practicability of constructing a ship canal across the Isthmus of Panama, and to estimate the cost of the same. The bill appropriates $100,000 to defray the expenses of the commission. The bill is said to be in accordance with the views of the Administration.

Representative Lowry, of Arkansas, has introduced a bill providing for the payment of $1,000 to the widow of Gen. Albert Pike, late of Washington, D. C., for services rendered by him as a commissioner to treat with the Indian tribes during the late war. The bill is said to be in accordance with the views of the Administration.

Representative Hiscock, of New York
